Like any summit, it takes work to climb to where leaders want to be. In the spirit of abundance, this summit is designed to help people move the needle on their personal development giving them the tools, tips and techniques to make them better leaders, and better business operators. We pride ourselves on providing high-value content that attendees can apply immediately to their business. The theme of the summit is Professional / Professional Development and Business and Operations Development, solving some very real problems. Time management, labour relations, HR best practices, business building, etc. The summit features panel discussions, interviews and concurrent sessions for the attendees to choose from. A successful presentation helps move leaders from, "I didn't know I didn't know this." to... "Now I know I don't know this... and now I know where to find a resource (you, the presenter). Our non-sales sessions focus on not only providing the high-value learning, but to spotlight the presenter as the expert.
